KEY FEATURES

One day workshop covering:

- ▶ Understand the key elements of a comprehensive Visual Management System
- ▶ Learn a step-by-step methodology to create a sustainable VMS
- ▶ Practical opportunity to design a VMS you can take back to your own workplace

A comprehensive Visual Management System (VMS) consists of so much more than displaying performance measures, making standard work visible, or using visual signals and Kanbans.

Many organisations are just scratching the surface of the possibilities of Visual Management Systems, a practice that's critical to the long-term sustainability of changes already made and to drive continuous improvement.

During the workshop delegates will understand how a VMS should be actively used to 'manage' – to control the activities performed in an area, to be used to make decisions and trigger action. Most importantly you will learn how VMS can be used to drive continuous improvement through engagement.

Key learning:

- ▶ Understand the key elements of a comprehensive Visual Management System
- ▶ Learn a step-by-step methodology to create a sustainable VMS
- ▶ Practical opportunity to design a VMS you can take back to your own workplace

Agenda Overview:

- ▶ Providing purpose and direction
- ▶ Making the 'work' visible
- ▶ The triggering of work
- ▶ Making performance visible
- ▶ Process and outcome metrics
- ▶ Escalating non-standard conditions
- ▶ Driving continuous improvement

Who should attend?

Future Lean champions can come from any department including:

- ▶ People in leadership roles who would like to design their own VMS for their area of responsibility.
- ▶ Those working in a production, non-production or service environment.

EXPERT TRAINER - DREW LOCHER

Lean Specialist and Instructor Drew first became involved in the development and delivery of innovative business improvement programmes while working for General Electric (GE) in the 1980s.

Since leaving GE in 1990 he helped the National Institute of Standards and Technologies' Manufacturing Extension Partnership (MEP) develop a Lean University. The University provides training to approx. 1,000 MEP field engineers who support small to medium-sized manufacturers throughout the country.

Since 2001, he has been a faculty member of the Lean Enterprise Institute (LEI), the not-for-profit organisation of Jim Womack, the co-author of Lean Thinking. He is a frequent speaker at conferences in the U.S. and abroad on the subject of Lean Enterprise Principles and Enterprise Excellence. Drew is currently an instructor in ISD's Improvement Kata & Coaching Kata course and is responsible for developing the new Lean Leadership programme at the University of Michigan.

“Drew has a great understanding and knowledge in VMS, the practical activity allowed us to create our own Visual Management Board, with a few more tweaks will be ready to use it in the plant”

Manufacturing Specialist, Laser Quantum

“With his vast experience, Drew Locher clearly knows his stuff, really liked his teaching style.”
