KEY FEATURES

- ▶ Practical study visits with a minimum of FOUR visits to the Gemba
- ▶ Delivered by the Toyota managers
- ▶ Includes hotel accommodation for two nights and two networking dinners, 15th and 16th November, includes Managers from Toyota
- ▶ Learn in detail the concepts of both the Toyota Production Systems (TPS) & the Toyota Way Management Behaviors

Whether you are embarking on a cultural transformation, relaunching your lean journey or simply adding to your practical knowledge of lean management – this two-day study visits and workshop provides a unique immersion into the Toyota Production System (TPS) at Toyota.

Attendees will, through the use of simulation techniques, extensive worksite study and discussion with senior management, grasp the meaning of key elements of the TPS and gain appreciation of its practical application.

Participants will understand the culture and performance management tools that exist in order to ensure TPS can be sustained and operate to provide the highest levels of operational performance.

Delegates will understand the process steps for implementation and their role in leading a Lean Transformation.

All participants will develop a greater practical knowledge of Toyota Management Behaviors and TPS through a minimum of FOUR visits to the factory floor.

Attendees where possible will be able to interact with shop floor workers and managers to enhance your understanding of the area in question.

Key learning:

- ▶ Practical study visits with a minimum of FOUR visits to Toyota's factory floor to underpin the workshop training and learning
